

March Madness: The ALL-NAME Team

By Kerry Schmidt 04-01-2007

By the time you read this, all that will remain of the madness that started out with 64 teams is now only 2

They will meet tomorrow night to crown this year's champion.

But the most important part of this entire madness deal is my "ALL NAME TEAM."

This will be my eighth all name team, and it is the most anticipated part of the whole tournament.

But first, a quick note.

We spoke last week of the controversy on the teams that made the list of 64 and the ones that were left out.

The left out teams went to the NIT, National Invitational Tournament. It's sort of like triple AAA baseball, not the majors, but the teams that made it were happy to be there, and for the winning team, you are the champion, so all is well.

One problem.

West Virginia won the title, and were immediately given the championship shirts that were already made up.

One problem. The picture showed the team holding the trophy, all smiles. But a closer look and you could see that the printing company – which probably will not do the job next year – said West Virginia on them, not Virginia. Hum West Virginia, west vagina, same deal.

Anyway they are the NOT champs and the shirts will certainly be collective items. Go Vaginas!

Now, on to the official all-name team.

Florida supplies the official beverage for the tournament with Corey Brewer. Wisconsin brings the religion with Jason Chappel and he is joined by Parish Brown from Maryland. Wisconsin also brings the romance to the dance with Brett Valentine and Maryland has Parrish Brown.

Gotta add Wisconsin's Joe Krabbeennooft. Oregon has someone named Joshee Akwwenukeum, a terrible quarterback, Aaron Brooks and a British diplomat, Churchill Oddia.

Other Marylanders are Ekeenee Ibekewee and Greiviis Nasquez, Boston College has Grant Leineindeckker.

Notre Dame had no one on the team. They are all good ole Catholic boys. UNLV needs Vanna White to buy a consonant for Gaasston Esseenquee, while Arizona gives us Feendii Onoozuun and the resident terrorist Mohamed Tangam. They also had Nick Wise, but he flunked out. Purdue's Gordon Watts shed some light on teammate Johnathnan Ucheeneduu.

Don't know why, but Georgia Tech has Alaaddee Aminuee, Lewis (was in a) Clinch, Paco Taco Diaw, Ra'Sean dickey and Zach Peacock.

Winthrop had Rainer Plickle and Taj McCahaal (great building). Arnaud Dajli (Lama), Addi Lidondee and Valdaas Vaasylius were on Old Dominion's roster.

OFF THE WALL SPORTS

Davidson's common names are William Archambault, Can Civi (wore Jockeys), Andrew (hawk a big) Lougydadde and Max Paulbus Gosszlinai.

Miami of Ohio had Alex Moosman and the cops, Eric and Tim Politz and Texas A&M – Corpus Christi brought Manual (Scooby) Doo Johnsson and Sethy Evquuellkken.

Jackson State's lone rep was Creatriua Giviins, Kansas had Sash (Shaka) Kahn and Brady Morning Star (from China) and UCLA gave us Mustafa Abdul-Hamid, Alfred Above (the rim), Aaron Affllaalo and the only 5-star name, Luc Richard Mbeah A Maute.

Pittsburgh provided the food with Mike Cook and then destroyed the bad food evidence with Antonio Graves.

Southern Illinis had Kobby Acqueoach Salukis, Joshua (Daniel) Boone and more religion, Christian Cornelius.

Tennessee had the referee with Ben Boss, the player on the wrong team, Duke Crews, hyphen man Rick Daniels-Mullholland, royalty in J.P. Prince and our brave military, Major Wingate.

Ohio State's Jamaar Butler did it, more food was provided by, Daequan Cook and some Greek mythology, Othello Hunter.

Central State has some good ole common names, Ingo Beaudeete, Piankhill Hutchinson, Javeer Mojicca and Obie (wan Knobe) Nouadike, and their last player, Jemino Sobers combines with BYU's Trout Plastard. Also on BYU, we have Rashaon Broadass (gotta love that one), Vuk Ivanuok, McGreggor (good Muslim name), Fernando (delivers the) Mailman.

Had to team up Wisconsin's Tarver Bronson with Xavier's Charles Bronson, while Long Beach State's lone rep is something called Arturrall Lazdauskass.

Virginia (not Vagina) has Manadi Manadi, Jerome Mayonisse (as in sandwich), Lauryhas Mikalauskaas, David Noel (Merry X'Mas and Tonji Soroye).

Albany supplies the caffeine with Joy Lati who served it to Mike (lil' Abner) Yokum.

Stanford had a couple of goodies with DaVeed Dildoe (he should have played for NIT champs Vagina) and Taj (flip me off) Finger.

Texas A&M had a bunch; Chinemeelu Eloni Jr. (there's two of them?!), Antaannass Kavaliauskas, Acie Law IV (four of them?), Marlon (erupted) Pompey and then they had a player with 23 letters, yes, 23, so I was too damn tired to type them all in. Penn had Ibrahim Jaabeer (drank and talked a lot); Nevada had Adstuu Carp, Nick Fazzeekas, Lkoueelev Dons and Kyle (battle of(Shilo).

Creighton had Jason (was in a(Funk, Manny Giekou (daddy a gecko?). briicee Nexigsu and Dante (more) Lights.

Hashim Bailey (Beetle's brother) and Chris Douglas-Roberts (hyphen name) played for Memphis.

North Texas had no one, because no one could find North Texas.

VA Tech had Zabian Dovelteel, Robert Krabendam and Cheiike Diakiitee, then Niagra (a nice mis print on their T-shirt would be Viagra) had Bensone Eqemonye.

Kentucky's lone rep was Lukasz Obrzut, while Villanova had Ross Condom (Vagina), Curtid (Fort) Sumpter and Trank Tchus (nice butt).

OFF THE WALL SPORTS

Holy Cross took one on the Andrew Keister, Duke's lone member was Martynys Pocius, but VCU had Matt Coward, James Eversly (brothers), Frank Kdongogo, Jame Pelot-Rose (Hyphen0 and B.A. Walker)Did not get his BA- flunked out).

Wright State had no one because they only had 10 players on the whole team.

Indiana also had no one because Bobby Knight was not there.

Gonzaga had Pierre Macie Altidor-Cespedoes and Weber State had David (George)

Patton, Chauncey Chelton (Chauncy?), Ty Sparrow (bird brain) and Arturas Valeeikka.

Eastern Kentucky had just Darnell Diallisis (kidney problems), Marquette had Ousmane

Barrio (from ghetto), Michigan State and Deon Curry (was with the Cook Boyd), Brandon Darntona and Idong Ibok.

Abdeoylaye N'Diayee and Seadokzk bondzzek represented USC, Arkansas had none –

what do you expect from a state which gave us Bill Clinton while Texas only had Coanner Itchlay (scratchy).

New Mexico State had four, Tree Britt, Machlin Iti (biti), Supo Jegede and Hatila

Passoss.

Vanderbilt: Davis Nwanktwo Coatidut and Ted Sulkhass. George Washington: Dokune

Akingbode, Travis King (royalty), Regis Koundijiai (Philbin) and Noel Wilmore (more Christmas).

Washington State: Thomas Abercrombe (and Fitch) and Nikola Kopeiviccia.

Oral Roberts has Egidijos Budrikiss, Moses (red sea) Ehabe, Memi Oguohye and Matt

Scherbenschkei.

Boston College only had Dayoo (Dayyy-oooo) Kaba.

Texas Tech has Trevor Cook (another food boy), Esimir Zizivic, Damar Sulagic, Decensas White-Pacific Cot.

Georgetown, Seeaad Dizdaareevic and OctaviusWarrens (Span).

Last, thankfully!!! But not least, Belmont's lone player was Keaton Belcher Good burp!

Thank God, I'm done. Done in!!

I will now burn up my spellchecker and have large single malt!
